THE

The attainment of the tipping point that transforms a phenomenon into an influential trend usually requires the intervention of a number of influential types of people. In the disease epidemic model Gladwell introduced in Chapter 1, he demonstrated that many outbreaks could be traced back to a small group of infectors.

The Tipping Point

The chief focal point of The Tipping Point is the means by which little changes, can achieve enormous impacts. With models, for example, showcasing of Hush Puppies shoes, the wrecked windows hypothesis, Airwalk shoes, Paul Reveres 12 PM ride, verbal, widespread panic and that’s just the beginning.

The Tipping Point was no exception in that regard. There is one point he makes in the book, however, which I definitely cannot buy into - he claims that kids are far more impacted by their peer group than their parents. He further claims that parenting has very little impact on the "outcome" of the child.
